

CORTELYOU HAS THE NEW FEVER

Present Secretary Of The Treasury Department Would Be Presidential Nominee.

HIS RISE HAS BEEN VERY RAPID

Started As A Stenographer And Rose Through Various Positions To Be The Secretary Of The Treasury Department.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., July 27.—Secretary of the Treasury George B. Cortelyou, whom many astute politicians look upon as an active candidate for the republican presidential nomination in 1908, was forty-five years old yesterday. Secretary Cortelyou is spending the summer at his home on Long Island, but he runs over to Washington at intervals to look after affairs in the treasury department and keep in close touch with the political situation.
As everyone knows who reads the newspapers there is scarcely another man in public life today who has come to the front so rapidly as has Mr. Cortelyou. He is undeniably a fine example of the young American, who rises by the sheer force of natural ability and application. In his youth he had an inclination for music as a career, and pursued several courses in the New England Conservatory of Music. But he dropped music, and took up the study of stenography. Fifteen years ago he entered the government service as stenographer to the appraiser of the port of New York. He came to Washington as a stenographer in one of the departments and in 1898 went to the White House as assistant secretary to President McKinley. This was the beginning of a series of rapid promotions. Private secretary first to President McKinley and then to President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Postmaster General of the United States and Secretary of the Treasury—all came in rapid succession. In 1904 he was chosen to manage the republican national campaign, in other words to fill the shoes that had been worn in days gone by by such consummate political leaders as Zach Chandler, Matthew S. Quay and Marcus A. Hanna. And now, at forty-five years of age, his name is mentioned in connection with the presidency of the United States.

Secretary Cortelyou himself is believed to have the presidential bee in his bonnet and possibly thinks he may stand a show as a "partially administration and partially conservative" candidate if anything happens to sidetrack the Taft movement and the President sticks to his determination not to run again.
Cortelyou is acknowledged to be a consummate political manager. There is not a diplomat in Washington more adroit. He is a great organizer. He works so easily and quietly that he never seems to be busy. But he does a tremendous lot of work for all that. He has the distinction of never having been a business man, but of being remarkable well equipped to handle business questions. The captains of industry believe in Cortelyou. Such men as Morgan and Bliss think very highly of him. It is recalled that in 1904 Mr. Bliss consented to serve as treasurer of the national committee only when told that Mr. Cortelyou would be chairman.
Mr. Cortelyou may be a long way from entering the White House, but that he himself thinks he has a chance to win is undisputed. He thinks so well of his chances, in fact, that he has refused several brilliant business openings so as to remain in politics and keep "in line."

JUDGE LEANS TO DEFENSE IN HIS CHARGE TO JURY

Boise Court Says Law Views With Distrust The Evidence of One Conspirator Against Another.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boise, Idaho, July 27.—Judge Freeman Wood today delivered his charge to the jury into whose keeping was given the fate of William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with the murder of former Governor Frank Steiensen of Idaho.
Choice of Five Verdicts.
He gave to the jury a choice of five verdicts: Murder in first degree, murder in second degree, voluntary manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter, not guilty.
Sixty-six Instructions.
The charge contained sixty-six instructions.
The judge dwelt at length upon the laws of conspiracy and the value of evidence given by an accomplice.
"The law views such evidence with distrust," he declared, "it should be received by the jury with caution and scrutinized with great care."
Charge Eminent Fair.
The charge is regarded by both sides as eminently fair. If anything, it was the consensus of opinion that the court leaned to the defense.
The jury retired at 11:04 o'clock.

SCOUT CRUISER IS LET INTO WATER

Sister Ship to Birmingham and Chester Christened by Daughter of Mayor of Salem, Mass.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Quincy, Mass., July 27.—Greeted by a chorus of steam whistles and cheered on by an enthusiastic assemblage of thousands of spectators the scout cruiser Salem, sister ship of the Birmingham and the Chester, glided from the ways today at the Fore river shipyard. As the vessel swept down to meet the water of the Fore river, Miss Lorna Pinnock, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mayor Pinnock of Salem, Mass., broke the traditional bottle of champagne and formally named the ship. Included in the christening party were Mayor Pinnock and a large number of other citizens of Salem, together with a bevy of girl friends of the young sponsor. The Salem, which is designed to make a speed of twenty-four knots an hour, is a new departure in shipbuilding in the American navy. The estimated speed, while slightly less than that of the new English scout cruisers, is more than compensated for by the ability to maintain the high speed in all conditions of weather and in addition the American type of cruiser has more than twice the coal capacity and, therefore, a far greater radius of action than the English scout. The Salem has the following dimensions: length between perpendiculars, 420 feet; breadth, 46 feet 3 inches; displacement on speed trial not more than 2700 tons; mean draft to bottom of keel at trial displacement, 16 feet 9 1/2 inches; total bunker capacity, 1900 tons. The batteries will comprise two 5-inch rapid-fire guns, six 3-inch rapid-fire guns and two submerged torpedo tubes. There will be considerable nickel-steel protection.

EVERY CITY AND TOWN OF MASSACHUSETTS IS HOST

Beacon Lights Blaze On Hills, Welcoming Former Residents To Their Old Homes-- Celebration Centers In Boston.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., July 27.—Great bonfires will blaze forth as beacons on the hills of Massachusetts tonight in welcome to the tens of thousands of sons and daughters of the state returning for the "Old Home Week" celebration. For several months the Old Bay State has been preparing for the celebration. All the chief cities and towns of the state have arranged to keep open house during the next seven days for the entertainment of former sons and daughters who have found new homes in the west and in other parts of the United States and Canada. And they are coming home by thousands, as is evidenced by the rush already on, to visit again the scenes of their childhood, to renew old acquaintances and to spend a happy week with family and friends.
The celebration will naturally center in Boston, the historic capital of the state, which is looking forward to the largest crowd of visitors in her history. The city is profusely decorated for the occasion, the state colors of white, blue and gold predominating. Immense "Welcome" arches greet the visitors as they arrive at railroad station or boat landing. The floral decorations of the famous Public Gardens have never been surpassed, while in the Common have been placed electric fountains and other features designed especially for the occasion. The court house, city hall, state house and other public buildings, together with the hotels and business houses and many private residences, are gay with flags and bunting.
During the next seven days there will be family, school, association and college reunions of all sorts; military maneuvers and parades, civic, trades and electrical processions, historical pilgrimages, religious and patriotic observances, river carnivals, receptions to the governors of New England and other distinguished guests; illuminations and band concerts, banquets, inspection of warships, yacht races and aquatic sports and athletic contests almost without number.
The various days of the week have been appropriately designated as follows:
Sunday—"Founders' Day." Dedicated to Blackstone, Winthrop and the founders of Boston.
Monday—"Patriots' Day." Dedicated to Adams, Hancock, Revere, and the patriot sons of the city. Big New England Firemen's muster.
Tuesday—"Greater Boston Day" and "Home-Comers Day." Dedicated to the suburban communities.
Wednesday—"New England Day." Dedicated to the people and governors of the New England States: Grand civic and trades processions.
Thursday—"Massachusetts Day." Dedicated to the people and industries of Massachusetts. Automobile parade and electrical parade.
Friday—"Women's Day." Dedicated to the women of the city and state.
Saturday—"Military Day." Dedicated to the defenders of the Commonwealth. Mobilization and parade of the militia under the command of General Nelson A. Miles.

ROYAL ROMANCE ENDED; DIVORCE CONTEMPLATED

Trouble Between Grand Duke Cyril And Wife, Who Was Formerly Forced To Wed Grand Duke Of Hesse.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, July 27.—The announcement that a divorce is contemplated between the Grand Duke Cyril, elder son of the Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, and his wife, who was divorced from the Grand Duke of Hesse six years ago, has come as a distinct shock to their many friends. The couple have been married about two years and have one daughter. They have frequently been mentioned, as among the happiest royal couples of Europe.
Their marriage in October, 1905, was the culmination of a love romance of many years' duration. The Grand Duchess Victoria Melita is a daughter of the late Duke of Edinburgh, brother of King Edward. Cyril and Melita were boy and girl lovers when both of them were in their teens. There were political objections to their marriage, and Melita was compelled to become the wife of her cousin, the Grand Duke Ernest Louis of Hesse. The marriage turned out to be extremely unhappy and ended in divorce.
As soon as the divorce had been announced, Grand Duke Cyril, who had carefully avoided the Hessian court after Melita's marriage, immediately appeared at her maiden home in Coburg and renewed his ardent declarations of love. Melita hesitated to marry again because this step would have made it impossible for her, under the terms of her divorce, ever to see her only child, the little Princess Elizabeth, to whom she was passionately attached. Princess Elizabeth, however, who lived with her father, was poisoned while visiting the Emperor and Empress of Russia. Her tragic death removed Melita's scruples regarding remarriage, and she consented to become Cyril's wife.
But there were other obstacles, among them the prohibition of the Czar. Cyril and Melita are first cousins and the marriage of relatives of this degree is prohibited by the Russian state church. When the marriage of the couple was announced the Grand Duke Cyril was immediately summoned to Peterhof to receive the full weight of the Czar's displeasure. He was deprived of his rank of aide-de-camp to the Emperor, of his commission in the army, of his uniform, his orders, and other honors, and was excluded from Russia.
But Cyril and Melita were indifferent to the Czar's displeasure. Far from being hurt they rejoiced in being able to live a free, untrammelled life according to their own desires. It seemed to their friends that they had reached the end of their troubles and vicissitudes, and that, like hero and heroine in some fairy tale, they would live happily ever afterwards. Hence the general surprise occasioned this week by the announcement that a divorce is contemplated. And it is learned, moreover, that their differences began almost immediately after their wedding.

JANESVILLE MAN
IN THE FINALS

LOCAL PLAYERS ARE INTERESTED IN TODAY'S RESULTS.

SCHALLER'S FINE GAME

Defeated Boyd of Milwaukee in the Closest Match of the Tournament Yesterday.

Al Schaller, the Mississippi Golf club representative who qualified for the first flight of sixteen in the state golf tournament at Madison, is today pitted against his old antagonist, Frank Jacobs of Madison, in the final for championship honors. By his defeat of Boyd, the crack Milwaukee player of the Milwaukee Country club, one up, in the best medal play of the entire tournament, Schaller has placed himself into position to be touted as the winner of the state championship. His scores for the play with Boyd was as follows:

Schaller—
 Out . . . 7 5 5 3 5 5 3 5—43
 In . . . 4 5 4 3 5 5 4 4—38—51
 Boyd—
 Out . . . 4 6 5 3 5 6 3 5—42
 In . . . 4 5 4 3 5 5 4 4—38—52

Jacobs Defeated Hewitt.
 Frank Jacobs, runner-up in last year's tournament at the local links, defeated his old-time enemy, Hewitt of Oshkosh, one up, holder of the state championship, and is Schaller's opponent today. Both the Schaller-Boyd game and the Jacobs-Hewitt game are described as follows in the Milwaukee papers this morning:

"The two semi-final matches today were whirlwind events, though the Jacobs-Hewitt match showed evidence toward the close finish of a nervous streak in the local championship candidate. Jacobs was three up and five to go and Hewitt made a gallant fight for the victory, a phenomenal put on the last hole, a contraption designed to run up scores with its sloping surface, on the edge of a hill stepped as a young Matterhorn. Jacobs put a shot that circled half way round a circle then found the cup.
 Hewitt made a good downhill putt, but it was too late as Jacobs had halved the hole and was one up.
 Schaller and Boyd played the best medal game of the tourney in their half of the semi-finals. The cards were:

Jacobs—
 Out . . . 4 7 4 4 6 6 5 2—42
 In . . . 5 6 3 4 6 6 4 4—36—56
 Hewitt—
 Out . . . 5 6 4 4 5 6 6 5—43
 In . . . 5 6 3 4 5 5 5 4—38—56

The results in the consolation flight were: Nixon defeated Makerson 5 up and 4 to go. Russell defeated Morris 4 up and 3 to go.

Earlier Games

The play of the morning started early. Jacobs and Vose getting an early start. At the outset the "grand old man" held his own against the Madison candidate, but Jacobs soon found his gait and ended the first round two up. The first five holes of the second round saw him make a score of one under bogey and play ended at the fifth hole. Jacobs won five up and four to play.

Champion Hewitt had some trouble with W. L. Yule of Kenosha at the first, but succeeded in finishing up and 3 to play. Schaller played a pretty match against Gilbert Allis and won 4 up and 3 to play.

Boyd showed up strong against Greenwald at the start, but Greenwald picked up and was able to force Boyd to play the entire eighteen holes. Boyd winning one up.

The morning play in the consolation flight follows:

Hixson defeated Haddfield 4 up and 3 to play.
 Handerson defeated Thompson, 2 up and 1 to play.

Morris defeated Burton, 1 up.
 Russell defeated Buller, 2 up and 1 to go.

3,580 POPULATION
IN FORT ATKINSON

Gain of 537 Since 1900 Census—Count
 Was Made at Order of City Council.

Fort Atkinson, July 26.—Every citizen is interested in learning the exact growth of a city. There has been a feeling for some time that this city was over the 3,500 mark, but it has now been definitely ascertained that Fort Atkinson has a population of 3,580, with good prospects that the total will pass 4,000 before another year.
 This figure is not an estimate, but an actual count made by city officers under the direction of the common council. Following are the figures by wards:

	1900	1907
First Ward	793	905
Second Ward	708	821
Third Ward	659	725
Fourth Ward	552	1222

This shows a gain of 537 over the national census of 1900.

JANESVILLE HAS A
BEAR SISTER CITY

Mayor Ludlow of Monroe is Now Puzzled Over What to do With Cub Bears Presented to His Son.

Janesville is not a lone sufferer in the bear question, nor as long as Mayor Willis Ludlow of Monroe has a "Teddy bear," a real, live one, to chase his choice cattle and create a disturbance on his premises. The bear is a present to Mayor Ludlow's son from John C. Chadwick, formerly a resident of Janesville and later of Monroe, Canada. Under the caption "Can Hardly Bear It," the Monroe Sentinel says the following about the mayor and his cub:

"When Willis Ludlow received that bear cub he thought he'd got something real choice. Ostensibly, of course, Bruin came to Monroe to play with Harris Ludlow, the son and heir of his honor, the mayor, and he might yet be missing up that young gentleman's immaculate wardrobe had he confined his sphere of action within proper limits. But, alas, he would pay attention to the family cow probably due to the fact that considerable of his ration still consists of milk. However well the cub didn't have liked the cow, the cow didn't like the cub a little bit; indeed his proximity disturbed her much, and from a quiet, peaceful, home-loving bessie she became a hysterical roamer on the face of the earth. The mayor happens to think a good deal of that cow, even more, perhaps, than he does of Supt. Whitcomb of the county farm. At any rate he induced the latter to take charge of the arrival from Edmonton, Canada, and there has been trouble at the farm ever since.
 Oh, yes, he's a real cute, playful little cuss," says "Slim," and his appetite is worth a couple of dollars a week of any man's money, but he's got our horses leered so they won't eat and if he stays long enough he'll make every animal on the farm a fit subject for the incurable ward. Last night they tried to give the bear to Hunkly Bab-ler, but when Hunk found out that a quart of milk and a loaf of bread looked like a light lunch to nibble and that his capacity was increasing in geometrical ratio, he gave the plumbber's sign for nay, nay. Finally, he remarked that it was trouble enough to feed himself. Too bad! that bear would have been like a brother to Hunkly.

"The cub's name is Teddy, and he plays his part all right. Jno. Chadwick sure shot a hunk of trouble into this peaceful vicinity when he started Teddy for Monroe."

REPAIRING STREETS
THROUGHOUT CITY

Aldermen Looking After the Interests of the Different Wards—Street Commissioner Busy.

Street Commissioner Semelt is having a strenuous summer this year and as a result the streets throughout the city are being put into first class condition. The good roads movement should not be confined to the rural districts as there are many streets, main thoroughfares, leading into the city itself that should be put into proper shape before winter sets in. Milton avenue, Milwaukee avenue, South Main street, North Main street, Magnolia avenue, Washington street, Mineral Point avenue and Pleasant street are all leading avenues for farmers to reach the heart of the city. Work was commenced on Milwaukee avenue but stopped by order of the aldermen leaving the street in very bad condition. Milton avenue is to be placed in first class condition and it is probable that except a minor repair on South Main street this street will be left until next summer when it will probably be paved or extensively repaired.

On the west side of the river the streets are in fairly good condition although teamsters and automobile owners complain that the crosswalks are placed too high for comfort or safety to rigs or autos with heavy loads, being raised several inches above the roadbed instead of merely rounded off. Outside the city the farmers of the different townships have taken up the crusade of good roads with a vim. In the town of Center a good road is being built at a small cost, traction engines being used to haul the gravel to make the low road high enough to be rounded off to give a good drainage and keep the form of the road itself. Shoulders have been taken out and the ditching properly accomplished. In the towns of Deloit and Clinton the arrival of the Government engineers and machinery is waited with anxious expectancy and two miles of excellent road will be laid here before winter.
 In other parts of the county the work of repairing and remodeling is being rushed. Late crops have delayed the work somewhat, but it will be carried on with a vim and the greater part of it ready for the winter and fall hauling of sugar-beets and tobacco.

Mind.

Alfred Woodruff, a six-year-old boy in the El Reno public schools, was asked by "teacher" to write an essay on mind, and here is what his mind produced: "You must mind your mother or you will get a licken. Then you will cry. Some mothers are cross.
 Some mothers lick you for running off. Some mothers lick you for going up town. Some mothers lick you for going a-swimming. If you will mind you will never get licken."—Kansas

SUNDAY ATTACKED SOCIETY AND ITS AMUSEMENTS AT CHAUTAUQUA.

CARDS AND DANCING DEFILED

Two-Hour Address Last Evening—
 Donated Lecture to Assembly Yesterday Afternoon.

Like a huge gun in a revolving target, Rev. "Billy" Sunday occupied the stage of the Janesville Chautauqua twice yesterday and belched forth his attacks on the so-called list society and their amusements—cards and dancing. In opening his lecture on "Amusements" last evening he said: "I have no apologies to make for what I am going to say; I'll say what I think because I don't care a rap for popularity and if a Chautauqua management ever instruments me what and what not to say they spell their directions and still I speak from my heart and will take all the slurs and censurings and still consider myself but one girl or boy. I make this attack wilfully and with malice aforethought because I believe if you saw cards you reap gamblers, if you promote dancing you fill the houses of ill fame, if you voters permit saloons to exist you reap drunkards. I defy you to contradict me; if you do you are liars." This opening volley was poured out with all the force that comes from an unlit-tled and well-used vocabulary, a strong yet carefully modulated voice and platform gymnastics. The same description applies to the entire address.

Recreative Versus Destructive

"I believe in amusements," continued Sunday, "but I believe in the re-creative and not the destructive. I believe in baseball because it's been kept out of the hands of gamblers. I believe in lawn tennis, though it is a little sissyfied, and in chess, checkers, and a lot of good games. Between these and cards and dancing there is all the difference between heaven and hell. Cards were invented to satisfy the whims of an idiotic king and they haven't been doing much different since. Ninety per cent of the gamblers were taught to play cards in their childhood homes and eighty per cent were taught in professing Christian homes. These figures are actual statistics. Society has its damnable card parties and then ostracizes and stigmatizes its victims. In this society where the women wear garments decollete, with their collars around their waists, the gamblers are mutilated and in hobnob they are graduated. Homes are the kindergartens of the gambling hell. Behind the name of club young men hide a good deal of cunningness and to keep the boys from gambling society fathers progressive cinch, progressive cinch, progressive cinch, progressive hell. An innocent social game of cards is the most insidious form of evil. And to call a group of divorcees, decollete gown wearers, dancers and wine-guzzlers the best society is an insult to Jesus Christ and a travesty.

Playing for Prizes Is Gambling

"Many a woman goes out to play cards and leaves her kids in the care of some hired girl who feels them on Mellin's or Nestle's food. These same children learn from their mothers to play games of chance. They learn to play in the street, the girls of third and fourth grade ages play slot machines. The women play for dinky or valuable prizes and throw a garb of respectability over their gambling. A gambler professes to be nothing more than what he is.
 This same hypocrisy is responsible for the weakness of many churches for they have become nothing more than third rate amusement bureaus sipping under the flag of Christianity.
 But some things are being done to combat these evils. Gamblers, drinkers and cigarette smokers find it hard to secure jobs; Queen Alexandra of England has announced she will not attend card parties, and in the east women of the Roman Catholic church have organized under the title of "Daughters of the Faith" and refuse to attend social gatherings given by or where there are present divorcees, gamblers or drinkers. When consider the divorce question I'm Roman Catholic to the core. I believe remarriage after divorce while both parties are living is adultery and then I believe that divorce is permissible on only one ground and that is adultery.

Liquor Not Worst Evil

"More church members have back-sided through cards and dancing than through liquor and I say this though I am the irrevocable foe of drink. The Sunday school teachers who play cards and dance, and two-thirds of them do, are not worth three whoops this side of b— Public school teachers as a whole do not exert the right influence over children. The influence of dancers and card-players is also bad, for all families are independent. I have heard work making my children mind, but my daughter will wobble through life like a hippopotamus before she learns gracefulness at a dancing school. Some people object to my arrangement of dancing schools, saying only in the slums is dancing an evil. I don't think they're right.
 Down in the slums they wear more clothes than they do in swell society.
 John Wesley not only founded the Methodist Episcopal church but he reformed the gambling, card-playing ministry of the Episcopal church.
 What we need now is another John Wesley. The Episcopal church is the best organized in the United States but it hasn't been aggressive lately.
 The Roman Catholic church is doing a great work in objecting to the fashionable dances and other amusements and fighting against liquor.

Unwritten Law Upheld

"Dancing is the greatest moral graveyard of women. Men will allow anyone to hug their wives and daughters and sisters at a dance but would kill at seeing a similar performance in the home. I wouldn't blame them, for I believe in the unwritten law from A to Z. The carcass of the man who would fool around my wife wouldn't be worth a cent and I don't believe you can find a jury of married men who would convict the man who murdered to defend the sanctity of his home. Dancing masters are worse than saloonkeepers for one, who had become a Christian, said to me that he had interviewed two hundred full-on women and one hundred and sixty-three had told him they were the victims of the dance. Society permits this slaughter of the innocents. It turns a deaf ear to the fallen but welcomes the debauching dude. Such degradation of women was responsible for the fall of both Greece and Rome."

Christian Science Assaulted

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Sunday donated a lecture to the Chautauqua.
 He was not on the program but contented to speak on "Forces That Win." He assailed Christian Science, saying that of all idiotic nonsense on earth that faith took the cake.
 "It is neither science nor Christianity, but it has just enough religion in it to float the fallacy. Its basic belief is that matter is non-existent, yet why do the Scientists wear clothes, eat or drink? I don't believe all Scientists will go to perdition for it takes sense to go anywhere. They'll get lost on the way.

"A man's size does not depend on his bulk but on his brain. Manhood is not measured by a tape line around the biceps and some of the biggest failures in life are rated A-1 in Bradstreet & Dun. I like to see red blood instead of pink tea and too water consisting through man's veins. Some men could tower above others like church steeples but they lack vim, ginger and tobacco sauce. They go through life like one strolling through a graveyard reading epitaphs. Some know right as well as Solomon and Brigham Young knew they were married, but they lack courage to do right. I also believe in cheerfulness for every time you laugh you put a crimp in the undertaker's business, you keep the hearse in the shed and shut the pallbearers from your home."

Origin of Peculiar Name.

The curious name of the anesthetic
 "stovaine" is due to its discoverer, M.
 Pourmeau. M. Pourmeau was anxious to perpetuate his own name in connection with it, but as the anesthetic was of the nature of cocaine and no compound resembling that could be contrived out of "Pourmeau," he translated the name into its English equivalent of "stove" and added the necessary termination.

..Forty Years Ago..

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, July 27, 1867.—The weather.—This afternoon 92 degrees in the shade.

The colored people will hold their services tomorrow in the court room; at the usual hours.

Crops.—The weather is glorious and crop prospects are all that could be expected. The wheat harvest in this section will begin next Monday, and it is the best crop since 1850.

Handsome Wheat.—H. B. Dailey has shown us a specimen of his wheat now maturing on a piece of land in the city limits. The berry is large and plump, and he says the yield has been estimated as high as 40 bushels to the acre.

Premium List.—Very wisely the officers of the Rock county agricultural society are making preparations to put into the hands of the people of the county the premium list of the fair to take place in September. It is none too early to begin this work. People desire to know what inducements are to be held out to exhibitors, and they moreover need to have the subject presented to them in order that they may have time to make due preparation for the event. If the people of Rock county will take hold of this fair unitedly, a magnificent exhibition will be the result.

Termination Of A Long Suit.—The case which has occupied the attention of the circuit court for the past week was a suit brought by J. W. Plato against William Kanary and Edward Murphy to secure damages sustained by the plaintiff in a murderous assault alleged to have been made by the defendants upon him. The attack on Plato was as cowardly as it was brutal, and if these men were the guilty parties, the verdict of $2,000 given the plaintiff by the jury was little enough and very likely it could have been more had not this been the full amount claimed.

ATTENDANCE AT ASSEMBLY GOOD

LARGE CROWD LAST EVENING—TOMORROW'S PROSPECTS.

MANY FROM OUT OF CITY

Interesting Program for Tonight, Tomorrow and Monday—Hearon Sisters Please.

All things considered it is remarkable that the attendance at the Chautauqua yesterday afternoon and last evening was so large. Despite the fact that no lecture or address was advertised for the opening exercises there was a good sized crowd in the afternoon. Last evening the auditorium tent was filled. The fact that farmers find it next to impossible to come to the city on week nights just at this time in the year and that many clerks and workers will not leave home on the night preceding Saturday was all that prevented the audience from extending far beyond the confines of the tent and up to the side hills on the north and west. Good crowds are expected for this afternoon and evening and there is no doubt but that hundreds from the country and nearby cities will visit the assembly grounds tomorrow.

Today's Attractions.

This afternoon the Hearon sisters are giving two concerts, one at two and the other at four-fifteen o'clock.

The lecture is by Col. George W. Bain, a Kentucky temperance orator, and his topic is the "Twentieth Century—Searchlight." Tonight at half past seven the Hearons give another musical program and at eight o'clock the Hearon sisters present an entertainment of impersonations and character sketches. Mr. Beilharz, replaced by Denton C. Crowl on the program.

The Hearon Sisters proved themselves artists last evening. The program they presented was far more versatile than any given on their appearance here two years ago. One of the quartet proved herself a beautiful soloist and another an adept at reading in the brochure of the Emerald Isle. The company gave a very pretty Japanese recital in costume, one reading, another singing and all playing on stringed instruments.

Church Services Tomorrow.

Tomorrow morning at half past ten there will be regular church worship. Local divines will conduct the service and Mr. H. V. Adams will deliver the sermon, speaking on the "All-Sufficient Creed."

Mr. Adams can tell what he knows in a pleasing way and he knows the world from many sides. For he was five years an editor, two years a successful lawyer, ten years a pulpit speaker and several years a platform lecturer.

In the afternoon the Hearons give a concert at two, and half an hour later Edward Amherst Ott speaks on "Sour Grapes." Mr. Ott combines his greatest thoughts in three lectures and in the one of tomorrow he answers many interesting questions on the ethics of biology.

At night the Hearons present another program at half past seven and at eight Katherine Briz Bowden gives an illustrated lecture on the Passion Play of Oberammergau. Mrs. Bowden's lecture is founded on what she saw in witnessing the original and her pictures are of the play given in 1900.

Monday at the Chautauqua.

There is much of merit in store for Monday. Miss Anna Amacker begins her domestic science classes in the morning. Her lectures will deal with cooking, sewing and nursing.

All of her talks will be enhanced by demonstrations. This will prove most popular with all women.

Sylvester A. Long lectures in the afternoon. He has visited Janesville many times in the past and his new lecture on "Hungry People" is awaited by all who heard him formerly and by those who have heard of him.

Katherine Briz Bowden will make her second appearance here in the evening, delivering the pictorial story of Hiawatha. Longfellow's Indian story is always popular and presented with slides should prove a drawing card.

The Chicago Ladies' Quartette, which was here two years ago, will open a four days' engagement Monday, giving concerts, before and after the afternoon lecture and before the evening lecture. The voices of this troupe are beautiful, well-trained and harmonized. All are soloists and the manager, Mrs. Elsie C. Palmer will be remembered as a reader of much ability.

By having Rev. W. A. Sunday lecture yesterday afternoon Manager Holbrook gave to the local Chautauqua its first extra number at this session. Last year and the year previous several extra numbers were furnished, but none so valuable from a monetary standpoint as that of yesterday.

The Rev. "Billy" Sunday left for Shelbyville, Ill., this morning.

Last evening many people at the grounds were a little too cool. Shirt-waist men wished they had vests and women wanted wraps. Don't forget such garments until the weather gets warmer.

The serving of meals began at the restaurant yesterday. Liberal patronage will begin tomorrow and last through the week.

The Washington street entrance to the grounds is south of the Woodbine cottage this year instead of north. The new road is an improvement on the old.

Manager Harry M. Holbrook went to Chicago this morning for a short business visit.

People going to the Chautauqua in carriages should not tie their horses outside the arch, the Chautauqua association having the use of the drive only. Hitching posts have been placed along the south edge of the grounds.

To carry the crowds to and from the grounds six street cars, two steam boats, one large launch and several smaller launches are being used.

REV. IRL HICKS HAS WEATHER ARRANGED

Foretells the Weather for the Month of August—Storms Are Predicted.

Thunder storms, with many stiff local gusts of wind and rain will center on and about the 1st and 2d. Immediately after these storms pass east of any given locality the wind will shift to westerly, the barometer will rise and change to some cooler climate.

A storm period is central on the 5th, 6th and 7th, on and about which days may be expected a return of storm conditions. The warmth will increase, the barometer will fall, and cloudiness will grow into decided areas of storminess and precipitation.

A storm period is central on the 12th and will certainly come to a crisis, certainly between east and west extremes of the country. The period between the 21st to the 26th may be put down as a decided seismic period, centering on the 23d and covering the entire period. The telegraph will report seismic shocks in widely different parts of the planet.

On the last three days of the month a reactionary storm period is central and this will partake more of an equinoctial feature than otherwise.

LAYS TROUBLE ALL TO TURKISH SPIES

ARMENIAN PRIEST GIVES NEW TWIST TO BLACKMAIL PLOT.

TO DISCREDIT PATRIOTS

Shows New York District Attorney Anonymous Letter in Which His Own Life is Threatened.

New York, July 27.—Rev. Levont Martogossian, once treasurer of the Hunchakist, the Armenian society which outsiders say has fallen from its high estate of patriotism to the practice of blackmail, gave Friday a new twist to the district attorney's investigation of the organization.

The priest had been subpoenaed to tell what he knew. This was to the effect that the present agitation, ostensibly directed by reputable Armenians against a band of assassins, was in fact inspired by the Turkish government whose hired spies systematically sought to discredit the patriotic Armenians in this country. The pastor of the Armenian Apostolic church had, he admitted, formerly been a member and the treasurer of the Hunchakist, but some time ago withdrew. He knew nothing of the murder of the rug merchant, Tavshanjian, who had refused to pay $10,000 for his life, and if extortion had been practiced he knew nothing of it. On the contrary, he told the district attorney that he, himself, was the object of persecution on the part of the Turkish government. Pressed to throw, if possible, light upon the workings of the conspirators, the priest replied:

"You are a rich and powerful nation, and you can find out more than I can."

His Own Life Threatened. The priest brought with him a letter, not signed, in which a threat to take his life was made. He turned it over to the district attorney. It read as follows:

"Boston, July 22.—Friend: Today in the papers I saw the name of Mr. Gulesian, and also read that you killed Mr. Tavshanjian, and you are not satisfied yet. You wish to drink some other prominent Armenian blood.

"Father, I worship patriotism. Yes, it is necessary to die for our nation. But, brother, is this the way? Now, you cannot deliver me. I know you. Long ago I ate watermelon with you in Boston and talked with you, how we could free our nation. In vigorous conversation we talked several hours, but now I have a command for you, and this is—look out. If you dare touch one of the millionaires in Boston or any Armenians the same time you and your blackmailing company will be killed.

"Listen, I am a man. Open your eyes. Now, don't ask me who I am and where you can find me. I am a soul here with millionaires. I am a soul everywhere to kill them who try to kill Armenians, but I am with you and with your friends if it is necessary to kill them.

"Now do you understand? I don't wish to talk any more. Now I repeat what I have said and probably when you get this letter I will be at your side. If you go in your private rooms I will be there. I am ready every moment to drop you to the ground."

Blames Turkish Spies. After leaving Mr. Smyth's office Father Martogossian said:

"I am entirely innocent of these insinuations which have been cast against me. All my troubles have been brought on by Turkish spies. There are 50 of them in this city and they are constantly hounding me.

"I never demanded money from anybody and have never gone to any wealthy Armenian for any."

"The Turkish government is behind it all," he added. "I am in danger of my own life. I have been threatened many times and I intend to go to Police Commissioner Bingham and ask him for a permit to carry a revolver."

MYSTERY AT VERSAILLES.

American Found Unconscious—Had Letter Signed "Pierpont Morgan."

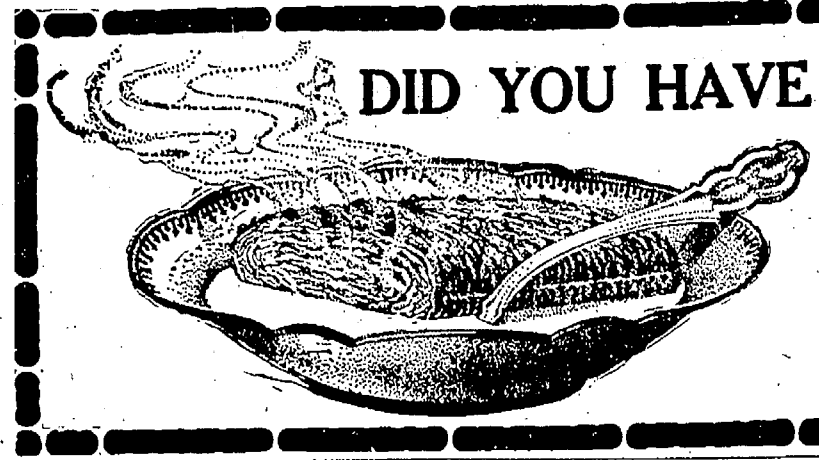

Versailles, July 27.—The finding Friday in an unconscious condition of an apparently respectable man of perhaps 30, or 35 years of age, who is believed to be either an American or a Canadian, lying on the lawn of a church in an adjacent village, has created a mystery which the officials are endeavoring to solve. In his pocket was a letter signed "Pierpont Morgan," saying, "Don't use, this unless as a last resort. It will serve as a means of identification."

There was a Montreal address on the envelope, but this was scratched in such a manner as to make it illegible. The shoes worn by the man were bought in Montreal. It has not yet been determined whether the man attempted to commit suicide with the use of poison or is a cataleptic. He remains in a semi-conscious condition, and the physicians in attendance upon him are baffled.

Deere Made Canal Commissioner. Springfield, Ill., July 27.—Gov. Deeney Friday appointed Charles H. Deere, of Moline, a member of the commission of the Illinois and Michigan canal to succeed William R. Newton, of Yorkville, whose term of office has expired.

DID YOU HAVE

MEN AND WOMEN WHO RIDE Daring Horsemen and Horsewomen Who Give Vim to Modern Circus Performance.

A circus without riding acts would be an anomaly. There is no feature of the old-time circus which seems so essential to the completeness of the modern arena exhibition, or which has so persistently retained its popularity with the public. The daring equestrian, turning somersaults on the back of a swiftly-moving horse, and the dainty equestrienne, posing and pirouetting her way into the hearts of the audience, both add immeasurably to the effectiveness of the mammoth three-ring circus of today, just as they did to the little one-ring circus of a quarter of a century ago.

The men and women of the circus who ride, have not, however, been satisfied to "let well enough alone." They have recognized the public demand for something new, even in the way of equestrianism, and during the past two or three years many interesting riding novelties have been made known in this country and in Europe.

The Barnum & Bailey greatest show on earth, which exhibits in Janesville Thursday, Aug. 8, has been a pioneer in introducing novel, and even startling riding acts to the American public, and this year, the management announces an unusually large number of equestrian acts of a unique character. One of these is presented by Ella Bradna and Fred Derrick, two exceptionally clever European riders. In introducing their act, three handsome horses are utilized, two together, and the third in tandem. The agile riders turn somersaults and jump from horse to horse and finally, Miss Bradna, standing upon the two horses and holding her associate on her shoulders, drives the tandem horse rapidly around the ring. Another novelty is offered by Robert and Louise Stickney, who present an original act, in which horse, harness, vehicle and costumes are all pure white.

The list of clever riders, as made known by the preliminary announcements of the big show, is an exceptionally long one. Among the headliners are Fred Ledgett and Dottie

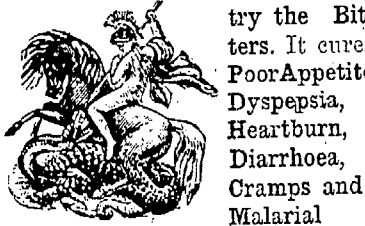

CARRIE ROONEY A Wisconsin Rider with Barnum & Bailey

Julian, the Roomeys, Onika and Marie Meers, Josie DeMott, the somersault equestrienne; Celia Sebastian, Minnie Johnson, Wm. DeMott and W. F. Melrose. These are all riders of international reputation. A large company of clever menage riders is also announced. For the hippodrome there is a stable of blooded Kentucky racers and a group of especially-engaged professional riders and drivers.

It is evident that patrons of the Barnum & Bailey circus will have no dearth of entertainment, for the program is replete with acts that promise new sensations for those who enjoy the thrills incident to the modern, up-to-date circus. The "Two Twirls of Terror" in which two daring bicyclists turn somersaults on their wheels while shooting through the air, the "Dip of Death," and Capt.

Do you want a medicine that has already proven its ability to make people well? Then try the Bitters. It cures Poor Appetite, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Diarrhoea, Cramps and Malarial Fever.

Carl Howelsen's startling feats of skiing are the year's big arena sensations and have created endless comment and discussion. The latest things in acrobaticism and acrobatics; three herds of performing elephants; a gorgeous spectacle founded on the Russo-Japanese war; a revival of the Roman hippodrome on an elaborate scale and a greatly augmented menagerie are among the incidental features announced for the big show.

EXPLAINS STORMS TO UNIVERSITY CLASSES

J. L. Bartlett, the Weather Man, Gives Striking Address at Madison Today.

Janesville people who are afraid of storms, especially the summer variety with lightning and thunder and wind, should have heard Prof. J. L. Bartlett of the United States weather department explain their growth and what are cyclones, tornadoes, and thunderstorms. Galveston, Pensacola, Louisville, and many other cities have grim reason to remember the effect, but few beside the weather man know when, where, and how these phenomena originate, how they grow, and the laws controlling them. He illustrated his points with stereoscopic views of general cyclonic and anticyclonic areas, the path and destruction of the Galveston flood, the Pensacola hurricane, and the tornado at Louisville, St. Louis and elsewhere.

What is a Cyclone? "The term cyclone, scientifically speaking, is a general one," said Mr. Bartlett in introduction. "It should not be confused with tornado, which is properly applied only to special very destructive local storms. Cyclonic storms include the areas of low barometric pressure charted daily on the weather map, the destructive hurricanes and typhoons of the tropics, and also tornadoes. These storms all have the same general structure, though they differ in area and strength. The air flows spirally inward on all sides toward a center of low pressure, where it ascends. This ascending air, at high elevations, spreads outward and mixes with the high upper currents of the atmosphere. As the air currents move inward at the surface of the earth they become more and more crowded together, and are forced to move faster and faster. Their velocity is also increased by the action of centrifugal force at the center of the storm which forces the air to move around the center with increasing velocity, before it ascends. Ascending air cools, its moisture condensing to form clouds and rain or snow. Hence we find that the centers of cyclonic storms are almost invariably accompanied by cloudiness, rain and high winds.

Hurricanes Explained. "The low pressure area of the weather map is usually of large extent—500 to 1,000 miles in diameter and does not represent a destructive storm, though when its center crosses oceans of the Great Lakes the winds may be dangerous for small vessels. The hurricane may be looked upon as a concentrated low pressure area, having a diameter of perhaps 100 miles, and causing much destruction by its high winds and, upon the coasts, by the storm wave which the violent inflowing winds heap up at the hurricane center.

How Tornadoes Form. "If we still further concentrate our low pressure area or hurricane so that its diameter is measured in thousands of feet instead of in miles, we have the tornado. In this storm we find the typical cyclonic spiral inflow of wind at the earth's surface, blowing down trees and buildings the ascending currents at the center of such strength as to lift animals, timbers, and even whole houses; and the out-spreading currents above, dropping at some distance away the objects which have been carried up at the center. The tornado cloud is caused by condensation of moisture in the ascending air, as well as by dust drawn up from the ground. Tornadoes usually form in the southeast quadrant of a decidedly low pressure area, and are preceded by a very warm, moist condition of the air. Like all cyclonic storms of this latitude they move in an east or northeast direction on the north side. To avoid a tornado seen approaching from the west one should therefore run to the north or northwest, if caught suddenly by the storm center, lie flat upon the ground, in a ditch or hollow, and as far as possible from trees and movable objects.

"Thunder storms, like tornadoes, occur in the south-east quadrant of general cyclonic areas. The squall wind which often attends them blows straight outward from the storm center. These squalls are sometimes violent but their chief danger is in the accompanying hail and lightning. High, exposed buildings should, as a rule, be protected by lightning rods running down to moist earth. Metal roofs with water-spouts running to the ground seem to afford some protection.

Silly Vandalism. The government officers after the lottery magnates destroyed among other things, a big scrap book of tickets as far back as the eighteen fifties, when lotteries were lawfully conducted. That was little short of a crime. The National Museum is the place for such relics of astute civilization.

THE CIVILIZATION AND BIRTH RATE

Influences of Emancipation of Woman Is Discussed by Professor, Ross.

Madison, Wis., July 27.—"Restriction of the birth-rate is at bottom salutary, and the undoubted evils in its train appear to be minor, or transient, or self-limiting, or curable. I take my stand with those who hate famine, war, saber-tooth competition, class antagonism, the degradation of the masses, the wasting of children, the dwarfing of women, and the cheapening of men," said Prof. Edward A. Ross, head of the sociology department at the University of Wisconsin.

The revolt against senseless procreancy is a colossal secular phenomenon of varied aspects," he said, "and few of its appraisers are competent to judge more than the one or two aspects that appeal to them. No one who envisages all the aspects of this pregnant thing, who succeeds in seeing it steadily and seeing it whole, will laud or condemn it in unequalled terms. Granted; but the question forces itself: Is the core of the thing good or bad? So pressed, I would answer: Restriction is a movement at bottom salutary, and the undoubted evils in its train appear to be minor, or transient, or self-limiting, or curable. I shall have against me mystics, clerics, a priori moralists, sentimentalists, aesthetes, militarists, capitalists and politicians; but, nevertheless, I take my stand with those who hate famine, war, saber-tooth competition, class antagonism, the degradation of the masses, the wasting of children, the dwarfing of women, and the cheapening of men.

Room for Millions. "It is questionable if the slackening of increase in the white race is not premature. Much of the globe lies undeveloped and capable under the vivifying hand of maintaining in comfort many additional millions. For some time yet overflow currents may well stream out from the seats of the white race to occupy and develop the backward lands. If these dry up now, the void will assuredly be filled with the children of the black, brown and yellow peoples, and the type that has so far achieved the most will contribute less than it might to the blood of the ultimate race that is to fill the globe."

After quoting statistics showing the steady decline in the population of Europe in the last thirty years, the similar behavior among the prosperous Australasian peoples, the fecundity of the foreign-borne in America, and its influence on the American birth-rate, Prof. Ross spoke of the low birth-rate among college graduates, and the influence of higher education and emancipation of women.

Emancipation of Women. "Some lay the phenomenon to the industrial emancipation of women and the comfortable celibacy of cities, neglecting the statistics which show there is no marked weakening of the inclination to marry," he said in this connection. "The true cause is one that will make clear why the native married women of Massachusetts, for example, bear only seven-eighths as many children as women coming from Germany, seven-thirteenths as many as those from Ireland, and half as many as those from French Canada. Others blame the broadening influence of divorce, unimpaired that divorcee Ireland has only four-fifths the birth-rate of easy-divorce Switzerland, that Germany is five times as inclined to break the conjugal bond as Canada where the size of the families, during a twentieth century, has nearly twenty times the divorce-rate of stationary France. Still others blame the postponement of marriage, pointing out that marriage at 24.5 years as with English brides, at 25.5 as among those of Massachusetts, or 26.5 as among college-bred women, cuts deeply into the fecund years. I maintain that the cause of shrinkage in fecundity lies in the human will as influenced by certain forces having their roots deep in the civilization of our times. With the wiping out of sharp class lines, inherited standards loose their grip. To gratify their craving for luxuries, men and women economize in offspring. Every child taxes the father's purse and the mother's body. The masses have acquired sense of responsibility with regard to family."

Italy's New Cereal. Italy has produced a new cereal for break-making purposes that is attracting a good deal of popular attention. A public test was made the other day at Mesbrino of baking bread from flour of the new grain, which is named Oloca Caffro, and has been developed by a priest of the name of Candeco. The bread was pronounced to be palatable, light, and mixed with one-third of wheat flour, is declared to make a sustaining food at very low price. Besides this, the "inventor" says that its general use would do away with the pellagra in Italy.—London Globe.

Substitutes. "We haven't any deviled crabs, sir," said the waiter. "I can offer you some very nice deviled eggs." "Umph! I presume if you were out of mock-turtle soup you'd suggest some very nice mock oranges?" retorted the diner. "Yes, sir," answered the waiter, calmly. "At least I would suggest that you give them a mock trial."—Harper's Weekly.

FUEL FAMINE NOT LIKELY TO OCCUR

MAST AREAS OF COAL LAND ARE OPENED UP OR AVAILABLE.

DEPOSITS IN NORTHWEST

Acting Secretary of the Interior Woodruff Calls Attention to Extensive Work of the Geological Survey.

Washington, July 27.—That a coal famine is not necessary or imminent is the opinion expressed by Acting Secretary Woodruff, of the interior department. In a statement made public Friday he discussed the coal area as developed by the geological survey, saying:

"Not including great areas of lignite, which will be mined only after the more valuable coal deposits are exhausted, the geological survey has determined that there are townships in the states and territories west of South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, aggregating in all over 60,000,000 acres of land, each township of which contains, under its entire surface or part of it, workable deposits of coal. This work has been taken up with the utmost vigor during the present year and townships containing more than 23,000,000 acres, in which workable coal exists have been examined and classified.

No Necessity for Shortage.

"When one remembers that these classified areas are most conveniently situated with reference to transportation and settled districts and that every acre of them is subject to purchase from the government under the coal land laws, and has been for several months; also that the Northern Pacific Railroad company alone is reputed to have in its own possession land containing over $300,000,000 worth of coal, and also that many hundred thousand acres of coal land scattered throughout the entire region containing coal have already passed into private holding and in many instances contain large mining plants, it is easy to see that if there is to be a coal famine next winter, such a famine will result only from failure to mine the coal which is easily accessible, either by grant to railroads, purchase in the past by individuals and companies, or entry at the present time under the laws.

Experts Adding to the Areas.

"The geological survey has 16 parties of trained experts advantageously scattered over the entire region containing coal. These mining engineers are daily adding to the areas classified and opened to entry. It is believed that by November 1 all land in the public land states known to contain workable deposits of coal will be classified and subject to entry."

Mr. Woodruff expresses the hope that the next congress may enact a leasing law which will permit companies to acquire control of more than the 640 acres now allowed to be purchased.

Of the coal land still held by the government over 25,000,000 acres is held at the minimum prices of ten dollars and $20 per acre, over 220,000 at $50 and over 30,000 at $75. This is in accordance with the classification made by the survey.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized from the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

As Jefferson went downstairs something white on the carpet attracted his attention. He stooped and picked it up. It was a letter. It was in Bagley's handwriting and had evidently been dropped by the man to whom the secretary had given it to post. But what interested Jefferson more than anything else was that it was addressed to Miss Kate Roberts. Under ordinary circumstances a king's ransom would not have tempted the young man to read a letter addressed to another, but he was convinced that his father's secretary was an adventurer, and if he were carrying on an intrigue in this manner it could have only one meaning. It was his duty to unveil a rascal who was using the Ryder roof and name to further his own ends and victimize a girl who, although sophisticated enough to know better, was too silly to realize the risk she ran at the hands of an unscrupulous man. Hestating no longer, Jefferson tore open the envelope and read:

My Dearest Wife That Is to Be—I have arranged everything. Next Wednesday—just a week from today—we will go to the house of a discreet friend of mine where a minister will marry us. Then we will go to city hall and get through the legal part of it. Afterward we can catch the 4 o'clock train for Buffalo. Meet me in the ladies' room at the Holland House Wednesday morning at 11 a. m. I will come there with a closed cab. Your devoted FITZ.

"Phew!" Jefferson whistled. A close shave this for Senator Roberts, he thought. His first impulse was to go upstairs again to his mother and put the matter in her hands. She would immediately inform his father, who would make short work of Mr. Bagley. But, thought Jefferson, why should he spoil a good thing? He could afford to wait a day or two. There was no hurry. He could allow Bagley to think all was going swimmingly and then uncover the plot at the eleventh hour. He would even let this letter go to Kate. There was no difficulty in procuring another envelope and imitating the handwriting, and when Bagley

"Say, Bagley, what does this mean?" was just preparing to go to the rendezvous he would spring the trap. Such a cad deserved no mercy. The scandal would be a knockout blow, his father would discharge him on the spot, and that would be the last they would see of the aristocratic English secretary. Jefferson put the letter in his pocket and left the house rejoicing.

While the foregoing incidents were happening John Burkett Ryder was secluded in his library. The great man had come home earlier than usual, for he had two important callers to see by appointment that afternoon. One was Sergeant Ellison, who had to report on his mission to Massenaqua; the other was Miss Shirley Green, the author of "The American Octopus," who had at last deigned to honor him with a visit. Pending the arrival of these visitors the financier was busy with his secretary trying to get rid as rapidly as possible of what business and correspondence there was on hand.

The plutocrat was sitting at his desk poring over a mass of papers. Between his teeth was the inevitable long black cigar, and when he raised his eyes to the light a close observer might have remarked that they were sea green, a color they assumed when the man of millions was absorbed in scheming new business deals. Every now and then he stopped reading the papers to make quick calculations on scraps of paper. Then if the result pleased him a smile overspread his saturnine features. He rose from his chair and nervously paced the floor as he always did when thinking deeply.

"Five millions," he muttered, "not a cent more. If they won't sell we'll crush them."

Mr. Bagley entered. Mr. Ryder looked up quickly.

"Well, Bagley?" he said interrogatively. "Has Sergeant Ellison come?"

"Yes, sir. But Mr. Herts is downstairs. He insists on seeing you about the Philadelphia gas deal. He says it is a matter of life and death."

"To him—yes," answered the financier dryly. "Let him come up. We might as well have it out now."

Mr. Bagley went out and returned almost immediately, followed by a short, fat man, rather loudly dressed and apologetic in appearance. He looked like a prosperous brewer, while, as a matter of fact, he was president of a gas company, one of the shrewdest promoters in the country, and a big man in Wall street. There was only one bigger man and that was John Ryder. But, today, Mr. Herts was not in good condition. His face was pale and his manner flustered and nervous. He was plainly worried.

"Mr. Ryder," he began with excited gesture, "the terms you offer are preposterous. It would mean disaster to the stockholders. Our gas properties are worth six times that amount. We will sell out for $20,000,000, not a cent less."

Ryder shrugged his shoulders. "Mr. Herts," he replied coolly, "I am busy today and in no mood for arguing. We'll either buy you out or force you out. Choose. You have our offer. Five millions for your gas property. Will you take it?"

"We'll see you in tophet first!" cried his visitor, exasperated.

"Very well," replied Ryder, still unruffled, "all negotiations are off. You leave me free to act. We have an offer to buy cheap the old Germantown Gas company, which has charter rights to go into any of the streets of Philadelphia. We shall purchase that company, we will put $10,000,000 new capital into it and reduce the price of gas in Philadelphia to 60 cents a thousand. Where will you be then?"

The face of the Colossus as he uttered this stand and deliver speech was calm and inscrutable. Conscious of the resistless power of his untold millions, he felt no more compunction in mercilessly crushing this business rival than he would in trampling on the life of a worm. The little man facing him looked haggard and distressed. He knew well that this was no idle threat. He was well aware that Ryder and his associates by the sheer weight of the enormous wealth they controlled could sell out or destroy any industrial corporation in the land. It was plainly illegal, but it was done every day, and his company was not the first victim nor the last. Desperate, he appealed humbly to the tyrannical money power:

"Don't drive us to the wall, Mr. Ryder. This forced sale will mean disaster to us all. Put yourself in our place; think what it means to scores of families whose only support is the income from their investment in our company."

"Mr. Herts," replied Ryder unmoved. "I never allow sentiment to interfere with business. You have heard my terms. I refuse to argue the matter further. What is it to be? Five millions or competition? Decide now or this interview must end."

He took out his watch and with his other hand touched a bell. Bells of perspiration stood on his visitor's forehead. In a voice broken with suppressed emotion he said hoarsely:

"You're a hard, pitiless man, John Ryder. So be it—five millions. I don't know what they'll say. I don't dare return to them."

"Those are my terms," said Ryder coldly. "The papers," he added, "will be ready for your signature tomorrow at this time, and I'll have a check ready for the entire amount. Good day."

Mr. Bagley entered. Ryder bowed to Herts, who slowly retired. When the door had closed on him, Ryder went back to his desk, a smile of triumph on his face. Then he turned to his secretary.

"Let Sergeant Ellison come up," he said.

A moment later the door opened, and Sergeant Ellison entered, followed by the secretary, who almost immediately withdrew.

"Well, sergeant," said Mr. Ryder cordially, "what have you to tell me? I can give you only a few minutes. I expect a lady friend of yours."

THE NEWS BOILED DOWN.

Newton A. Berry, a wealthy farmer who lived near Covington, Ga., was gored to death by a mad bull from a neighboring farm.

John D. O'Shea of Boston, a grand trustee of the Elks, left in his will a legacy to Miss Hattie M. Evans, who was his sweetheart 25 years ago.

A bolt of lightning started a fire in the Augusta cotton factory at Augusta, Ga., but another bolt, turned on the automatic sprinkling apparatus and quenched it.

NEW YORK POLICE HELPLESS.

Assaults on Women and Children Continue in Gotham.

New York, July 27.—To the series of unpunished crimes against young girls which daily of late have "exasperated the police and put parents in the outlying districts in an ugly mood," were added Friday the cases of Virginia Barish, 17 years old, and Annie Falkoweko, a tot of five years.

So notorious have become the cases of assault, amounting in two recent cases to murder, that Police Commissioner Bingham has been driven to explain that his army of policemen is insufficient to cope with this particular species of degeneracy. He has warned fathers and mothers not to allow their little ones to wander aimlessly in the streets.

Porto Ricans Do Not Celebrate. San Juan, Porto Rico, July 27.—Thursday, the ninth anniversary of the landing of American troops in Porto Rico, was celebrated as a legal holiday. All government offices were closed, but the event was not celebrated by the populace in any town on the island.

Receiver Asked for a Union. St. Louis, July 27.—Suit was filed in the circuit court Friday asking the appointment of a receiver for the Brewery Workers' Association of Missouri. The plaintiffs are John Bokel, John Mainhart and Jacob Suess, who sue for themselves and such other members of the beer drivers' union No. 43 as may choose to join with them. The receivership is asked for to settle rival claims on property valued at $20,000.
